Peeping At People

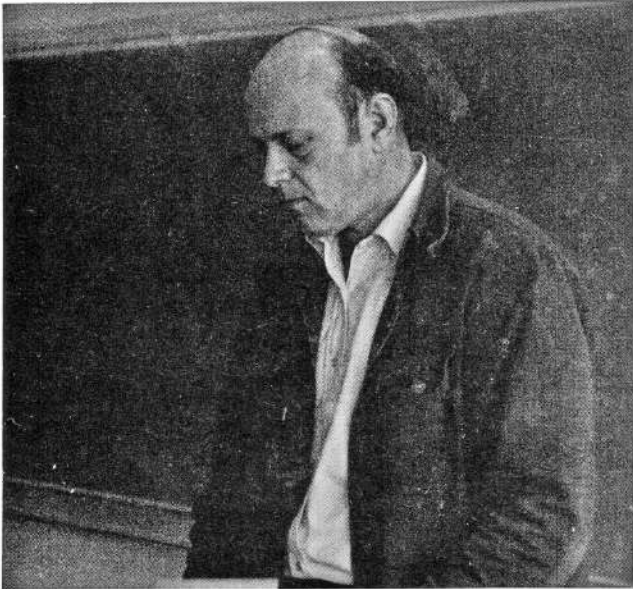

P.H.S. Faculty

In preparation for this section, the editors asked a number of the members of the faculty to comment on the most and least satisfactory aspects of teaching. Following is a list of those responses given without explanation or comment: "involvement with students"; "keeps you active"; "has variety"; "students are interesting"; "watching the kids grow"; "only working 75% of the year" and the drawbacks are: "you have to put in extra time to get things done"; "going to summer school"; "worrying about the kids"; "putting up with rowdiness"; and "students and teachers hating each other".

Mrs. Helen Slocum is the Deputy Clerk.

Mrs. Gurlah Marsh is the assistant district office bookkeeper.

District 2CJ School Board

The district 2CJ school board is made up of seven members. It takes four for a quorum and a majority. In addition, Mr. Maus, the superintendent, and Mrs. Slocum, the deputy clerk, attend every meeting.

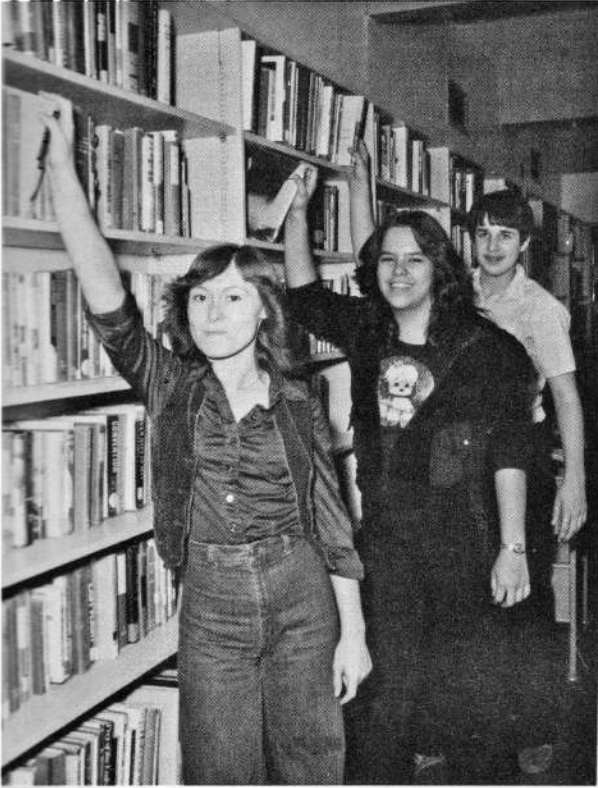

This year the board considered many controversial subjects, as well as the routine business of the school district. Among the things acted upon were the following items:

1. They acted upon individual requests from Seniors to graduate outside the new requirements.
2. Discussed the advisability of moving the junior high to Pacific High School.
3. Increased the price of the rooter's buses from 75¢ to $1.00.
4. Required building principals to attend all meetings of the board.
5. Decided to send the Pirate's Echo to all patrons, then later rescinded that policy in favor of communication that did not include the high school newspaper.

Not pictured are Patty Sweet and Shirley Richards.

PHS Aides

Lending A Helping Hand Is What Being An Aide Is All About.

Typing up overdue booklists, shelving, dusting, and other odd jobs are part of a library aide's work.

Typing is also one of the main jobs of office aides, as well as filing and answering the phone.

Lunchline, Student Store Gets Us Through Noon

Noon time activities at Pacific High include the hot lunch line opening up to Seniors five minutes before the end of the fourth period. The student store, below left, opens when everyone has been served. It is a madhouse. Often, sandwiches or doughnuts are sold by some class or organization.

The library is open at noon, as are many classrooms. Mr. Hughes can usually be seen walking around the halls or outside.

A Freshman Is . . .

Being the second largest class in the school with 50 people.

Being required to take Biology I, Eng. I, and P.E.

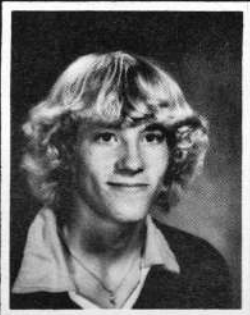

Being defined in the dictionary as "any beginner".

Being afraid to go in the senior bathrooms, walk down the senior hall, or to even speak to an upperclassman.

Being initiated by the upperclassmen. Seeking revenge on those same upperclassmen.

Being called "Hey You" for the first nine weeks of school because no one knows your name. Building the bonfire at homecoming. Coming in last in the noise parade. Putting on the Sweetheart's Ball.

Being last in line at lunch, the student store, last to be dismissed at assemblies, etc. Also, however, only three years away from becoming a SENIOR!!

Raising money can be a very difficult job as the Freshmen soon discovered.

One of their more successful money making projects was a slave sale, where they auctioned themselves off to the highest bidder. (At right) class secretary, Debi Bridgman (seated) records the $5.00 sale of Tessa Nored to Junior Chris Whiting.

Prom Held At High School

Theme: Always And Forever

This year the Junior class has shown everyone how spirited they are. They came in a loud first in the noise parade, and second in Spirit Week. They are seldom beaten when it comes to the competition yells at the assemblies.

They are also holding many activities and projects to raise money for the prom. Some of their money raising ideas were selling flowers on Valentine's Day, having bake sales, dances, and selling candy bars, etc. The Junior class has done well this year. Good luck as Seniors.

Talented And Gifted

First row: Shawn Norton, Mike Adams, Kate Foster, Melinda Iida and Sue Trimble; Second row: Steve Simoneau and Mr. Bures, advisor.

Take Trips

The talented and gifted class got off to a late start this year because of early false hopes of a substantial increase in funding for the program.

The students eventually chosen expressed some interest in being in the program, and many were recommended by members of the faculty.

Their projects are both individual and collective. In March they traveled as a group to the Oregon Shakespearean Festival in Ashland and saw "As You Like It." Other trips and activities were planned for the last nine weeks.

Council Leads Quiet Year

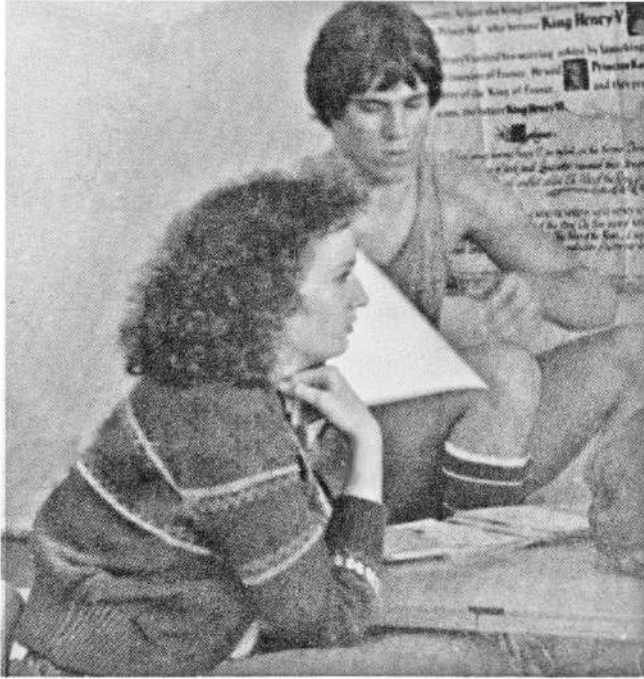

Among the purposes of the student council are: to aid classes financially when funds are low, encourage school spirit by organizing hall decorations at Christmas-time or during Homecoming week, and what we all look forward to — class competition day, held in the Spring, popularly known as “Spring Fever Day”. The Students Council officers pictured at right for this year were:

President: Greg Brannon
Vice-President: Phil Lent
Secretary: Kim Culley

N.H.S. Promotes Achievement

Working Hard

The National Honor Society is an organization of students who have maintained above a 3.0 grade point average for three semesters.

The purposes of N.H.S. are:

To create enthusiasm for scholarships.

To stimulate a desire to render services.

To promote leadership.

To develop character.

Once a year the club has an initiation ceremony to install new members. Usually the members are of the sophomore class.

This year the initiation ceremony was held at the Port Orford Elementary School, under the supervision of Mr. Radcliffe, the advisor, President Jaquie Long, Vice-President Betsy Marstall, and Secretary Lisa Storm have organized weekly bake sales to raise money for future activities.

F.B.L.A.

The Future Business Leaders of America is one of the more active clubs in our school. It has the largest memberships of any club here at Pacific.

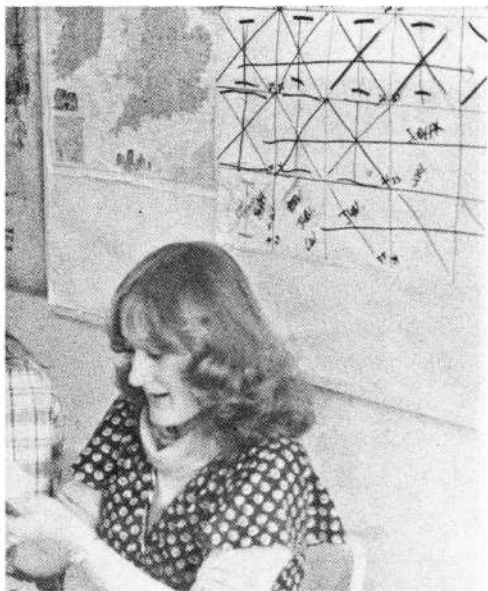

The main purpose of the club is to make better business leaders of its members, and prepare them for the future.

Traveling to S.W.O.C.C. for an orientation day, Reedsport, for District, and Portland for their state convention, the club learns and competes in Business skills. The state and district officers are also elected at this time.

To raise money for their activities the members sold posters, writing kits, and personalized buttons.

Prepare For Future

F.H.A.

The organization of Future Homemakers of America is intended to promote ideas on home-making and activities in the area of homemaking careers.

A shortage of funds prevented the club from going to their state rally.

Money-raising projects such as bottle-drives throughout the year help cover costs of dues and other activities the club participates in.

Striving To Be The Best

Participates In Jog-A-Thon.

Here's The facts . . .

This year we had a different event at Pacific High School—a jog-a-thon. It involved many students from the high school, the junior high, and the community—289 in all. The date was October 3, a Wednesday, and the weather was perfect.

Approximately $12,000.00 was pledged and we received about $9,000.00 in payments for our track fund. After bills were paid, and the other organizations' percentages were taken, we split the remainder 70-30 with the jog-a-thon Company. Our share was approximately $5,000, according to Mr. Bridgman, athletic director. Dave Inglehorn served as the jog-a-thon co-ordinator.

Top runners were Ron Rooks with thirty-eight laps, Micky Heinzman with thirty-six, and Rhett Kreutzer with thirty-five. Other runners breaking thirty laps include these students, teachers, and patrons: Mike Adams, Robin Beckman, Sharon Coyne, Shannon Creason, Greg Doran, Groover Faust, Larry Johnson, Jerry Knoblet, Jacquie Long, Frank Neely, Dale Peters, and Mike Wood. Marion Dallison completed four laps on crutches.

Band, Chorus Make

This year the school band was much smaller than previous years, but was just as active.

Besides playing at all home football and basketball games, and performing at the Christmas and spring concerts, they traveled and performed at various festivals and contests.

Two students were chosen from the band to play in the Oregon Honor Band. Tryouts were held at which time Bryce Barklow and Judy Rodgers were selected to play.

Other events which the band took part in were a festival held in Myrtle Point, where the band competed with other bands from around the state, a jazz contest held in Myrtle Point, and the fourth of July Parade in Port Orford.

Music Together

Chorus this year had one of its more successful classes. They participated in several different events. They performed at school concerts and traveled to S.W.O.C.C. for a choral contest between other schools around the state.

For the Christmas concert this year the students bought material and had blue satin vests made which they wore with white pants.

Annual Class Rushes

To be involved in the production of the school annual involves much hard work—meeting deadlines, making pictures, selling advertising, writing copy, and sometimes giving up their lunch hours are what it takes to produce the yearbook.

This year the class got off to a slow start, but by the end of the year had everything running smoothly.

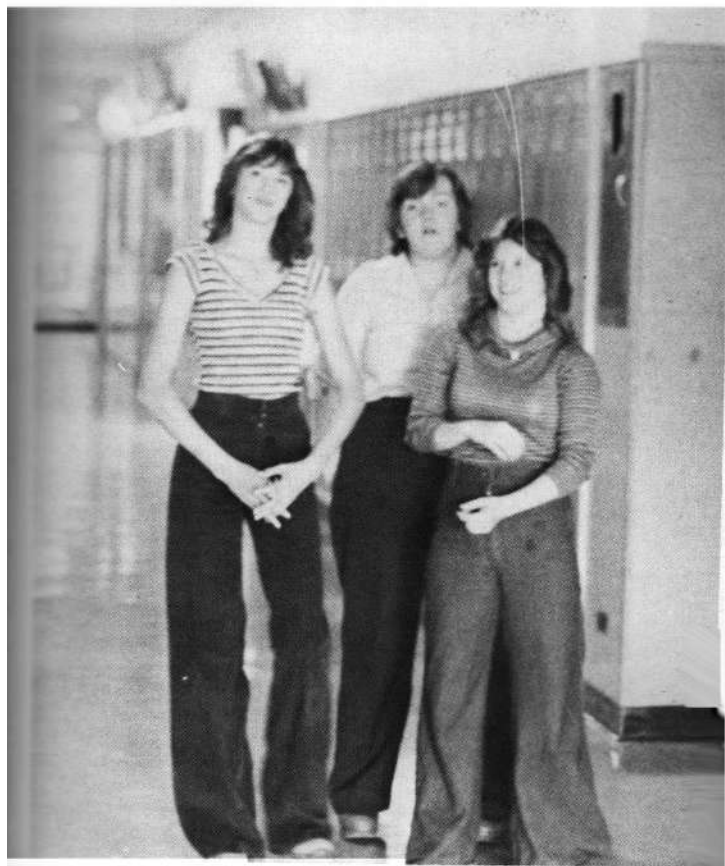

Under the supervision of Mr. Davis, they managed to get through the rough spots successfully.

After having sent the last pages in for printing, the class went out for their “annual” pizza feed.

Outdoor Ed. Counsels

The Outdoor Education leaders this year went to Lobster Creek Youth Camp from September 30 through October 5, as counselors for sixth graders. Their job was to keep a close eye on the kids they were in charge of and give classes concerning outdoor education. Some of the things they did while at camp included swimming, hiking, gold panning, and just having fun.

During this week the counselors had several field trips to study plants, animals, and water-related organisms. There were about eight students in each cabin and many new friendships were developed.

Boys', Girls' State Delegates Chosen

Lyn Peterson is our representative to Girls' State which was held at Willamette University in Salem the week of June 15. She was one of 260 girls from around the state to attend this annual event sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Lyn was chosen from a field of eight contestants and attended a tea on April 20, at which time a political party was assigned.

This program which has been in existence for many years is held to teach students how our democracy works through the functioning of political parties, caucuses, conventions, and the initiative and referendum process.

Boys' State was held at the University of Oregon during the week of June 8-14. Its purpose is the same as Girls' State. Phil Lent and Ron Rooks were chosen by the American Legion and by the Rotary Club as representatives.
